Marginal Column
By ERIC LAUREN

SEVERAL days ago the yearly conference of the Institution of Production Engineers opened in Margate, England. Ordinary this event would hardly have created much excitement in the offices of the "Daily Mirror" (over ten million people read the Mirror every day) but it was not in the premises of the "Daily Mirror" that the event took place. It was in the premises of the "Daily Mirror" that the event took place. It was in the premises of the "Daily Mirror" that the event took place.

THE fact that such a problem existed was realized in America many years ago. Today, 14 machines make 90 per cent of America's electric bulbs and the Russians have an automatic factory manned by nine men that turns out piston heads for the entire Soviet light car industry. A power plant in Pittsburgh now under construction will need exactly six men to supply electricity for a whole city of about one million inhabitants.

THIS second industrial revolution has, of course, not reached its climax all of a sudden during the last week of June, 1958, whatever the "sketch" and the "sketch" may say. It has been in progress for many years and it will go on for some time more. The fact is that the "sketch" and the "sketch" may say. It has been in progress for many years and it will go on for some time more.

THE real issue is, of course, whether we are indeed as the main speaker at the Margate Conference said, "facing the future" or whether we are "facing the past". The real issue is, of course, whether we are indeed as the main speaker at the Margate Conference said, "facing the future" or whether we are "facing the past".

Britain to Protest Shelling of Ship At Gulf of Akaba

LONDON, Monday (Reuters). — Britain will deliver a strong protest to Egypt immediately over the shelling yesterday of a British merchantman by an Egyptian battery at the mouth of the Gulf of Akaba, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

The vessel, the 4,300-ton Antrim, was shelled and holed above the waterline by a battery firing from Sharm el-Sheikh, her master reported to the London managers, John Swire & Sons. No casualties were reported.

Shipping circles here say that since 1951, when the British steamer Empire Rock was stopped and searched by an Egyptian corvette, vessels of all nationalities have to give their identity and port of destination when challenged by the Egyptians.

The British and Egyptian Governments have agreed that British ships should identify themselves before entering the Gulf.

Financial Independence Of the Jerusalem Post

The German-language newspaper "Yediot Hayom" on July 3 carried the following article from the Jerusalem Post, concerning this paper's financial independence.

In your issue of June 24, it is stated in an article signed J.H. that "it has long been a fact that the Jerusalem Post is forced to accept subsidies from political groups."

Permit me to state that this allegation is completely without foundation. From the first day to this, a matter of 23 years, the Jerusalem Post has never sought nor received subsidies from any Party, institution, or person.

Whether this paper is the mouthpiece of the Government is a matter of opinion. But it is not the fact of the matter, that is, the Government and this paper, will not readily agree that this is so.

I attach considerable importance to the wrong statement you have made about the Jerusalem Post. I should be grateful if you would insert this correction at the earliest possible occasion.

Yours,
Gershon Agmon

Gaza Talks Stalled By Cairo's Intransigence

Egyptian intransigence has led to further delay in the talks on the Gaza Strip border situation which were to have been resumed tomorrow.

Egypt Found Guilty Of Shelling Kibbutzim

The Egyptian shelling of kibbutzim in the Gaza Strip was a "flagrant violation" of the armistice, it was decided at an emergency meeting of the Mixed Armistice Commission yesterday.

The Commission found that the following Israeli casualties were inflicted by the Egyptians: a soldier and a civilian killed; two civilians, one a woman, lost both legs, and one civilian seriously wounded. In addition, 21 head of cattle were destroyed.

The Israeli ambulance sent to evacuate the casualties was mortally wounded. The driver was killed and the casualties had to be evacuated by two half-tracks, the report stated.

The Chairman, Chief de Battalion F. X. Giacomaggi, declared: "The incident discussed today was witnessed by a U.N. military observer who was able to state clearly who opened fire first."

However, by voting for the Israeli resolution, I do not intend to imply that I condone the use of prohibited vehicles in the defense area.

An Egyptian resolution also adopted, found that an "Egyptian position and the area surrounding it were subjected to an extremely heavy artillery barrage of field artillery (23 pounders) and three-inch mortars which lasted for 40 minutes," causing the following Egyptian casualties: a soldier and a civilian killed; two civilians, one a woman, lost both legs, and one civilian seriously wounded.

Earlier yesterday Cairo Radio reported that Colonel Gohar was going to Gaza today in preparation for the meeting.

In Washington, yesterday, according to Reuters, the Egyptian Foreign Minister, Mahmoud Fawzi, reiterated his country's refusal to recognize Israel as a belligerent state.

Asked if it would not be good to have direct high-level talks between Egypt and Israel, he declared: "Egypt has shown abundant willingness to negotiate with Israel on the basis of the armistice, but the Gaza Strip will be completely eliminated or reduced."

The Egyptian representative at the Mixed Armistice Commission meetings had "full authority," Fawzi said, and he received from time to time whatever supplementary instructions were needed.

Fawzi is due to leave for the Gaza Strip tomorrow with the U.N. Secretary of State, Mr. Dulles, and other top officials. They will discuss for two full days Egyptian-Israeli relations and prospects for cooperation between Egypt and the U.S.

Elath Sees Nutting

LONDON, Monday (Reuters). — The Israeli Ambassador, Mr. Eliahu Elath, discussed the situation on the Gaza Strip border with State Secretary Nutting at the Foreign Office today.

Mr. Elath called at his own request for a general talk before leaving for a holiday in Italy.

Khrushchev Asks Cards on Table At Geneva Parley

MOSCOW, Monday. — Mr. Nikita Khrushchev, the Communist Party leader, told the U.S. envoy here today that if both sides lay their cards on the table at Geneva, "something will come of it."

He added: "If we go to Geneva like merchants, it is not worth while going."

He made the remark to Mr. Walter Waisley, the American Charge d'Affaires, and the top U.S. representative in Moscow, the absence of Ambassador Charles Bohlen.

Mr. Khrushchev said the Soviet Union was not attending the Geneva conference out of weakness. "We are not going with broken legs, but like soldiers to meet worthy partners—and that is the only way."

He spoke at great length of the internal strength of the Soviet state, and warned that the West would make a great mistake if it underestimates this strength.

Break with Precedent
The party chief talked to Mr. Waisley during a precedent-shattering visit of nearly all the top Soviet leaders to the U.S. Embassy.

He pointed out that he spoke with the concurrence of the Prime Minister, Mr. Bulganin, and First Deputy Premier, Mr. Kaganovich.

Mr. Khrushchev said he believed that the West would make a great mistake if it underestimates this strength.

He added: "If we go to Geneva like merchants, it is not worth while going."

Council of Europe Drafts Blueprint to End Cold War

West Preparing Arms Cut Plan Urges Mutual System Of Collective Security

LONDON, Monday (UPI). — The Western Big Three are preparing plans for a limited East-West disarmament programme to present to the Geneva summit conference, authoritative diplomatic sources said today.

The new proposals—less sweeping than previous disarmament suggestions—may prove more readily acceptable as a first step towards arms reduction, the sources said.

The West's blueprint will be fully signed by the Western Foreign Ministers at a meeting in Paris on July 15.

The sources said that the West is "re-thinking" its earlier ambitious plans for a broad world arms reduction scheme under foot-proof controls.

Latest developments have led experts to believe that sweeping controls are now hardly practicable, quite apart from Russian reluctance to allow inspectors free movement within the Soviet Union.

But the West feels that disarmament is the most promising issue for agreement with Russia at the forthcoming top-level talks. Both sides have worked for some time on this question and latest proposals have shown considerable rapprochement of East and West viewpoints.

Slow Stages
Arms reduction by slow stages may provide for an immediate "standstill" agreement which would commit the West as well as the Russian bloc to halt all new arms development. This would be followed by phased reduction of armed forces on both sides, limiting the latter to defensive weapons rather than offensive nuclear weapons possibly could follow, the sources stated.

Plans for a broader disarmament scheme, including land, air, sea and space forces, would be tightened by an international control system would be further pursued. It could be put into force when and if the cold war ended.

Russia is believed to be interested in such a course, and there are growing indications that she feels the pinch of the arms burden.

The move would be facilitated if agreement could be reached on German unification. But it could be started even in the absence of such accord, the sources said.

Trade Pact With Yugoslavia Renewed

INSTRUMENTS of ratification of a commercial agreement between Israel and Yugoslavia were exchanged yesterday between the Prime Minister, Mr. Moshe Sharet, and the Yugoslav Minister, Mr. Jovan Vukmanovic.

The agreement, the third between the two countries, was signed a year ago and provides for automatic renewal unless either party objects. The first was signed in 1948. During the period 1948-53, Yugoslav exports to this country amounted to less than $100,000 per year while $500,000 worth of Israeli products were imported by that country. Last year, however, Israel imported $2m. worth of goods from Yugoslavia and exported $1.5m. worth of goods to that country.

Reports from Israel included citrus products, bananas, tires and woolen thread, while the country imported citrus packing cases and chemicals from Yugoslavia. Increased production here and a consequent rise in potential exports to Yugoslavia afford Israel the opportunity of increasing its foreign trade.

It is hoped that the technical trade talks held last May in Belgrade will facilitate the full utilization of the agreement and lead to closer economic cooperation between the countries, the communiqué concluded.

THE SAME COURT sentenced to six months in prison an infiltrator from Jordan who had entered this country, "out of work," and another to two years in prison, who ostensibly had entered Israel to escape from a Jordan police sergeant with whom he had quarreled.

INFILTRATORS stole 120 metric tons of wheat from the Jordanian port of Haifa, near Migdal Ashkeim, during the past week.

A CLING to serve the surrounding settlements was inaugurated in Kibbutz Na'an, near Ramle, on Sunday. The Ministry of Health and Kupat Holim shared the costs of construction.

AN AMERICAN tourist, Mr. T. Y. Yarn, returned to his hotel in Haifa after a trip to the Golan Heights, containing an expensive watch, had been stolen while he was swimming in the sea at Tel Aviv on Sunday. The loss is estimated at $1,500.

I HAVE enough troubles without the A.C.M. 22-year-old Shulamit Hashan stated before Jerusalem Magistrate A. Eden yesterday, admitting that she had delayed registering for the Defense Forces for two-and-a-half years. She was fined $1,500.

Dov Shira, 50, Dead in Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV, Monday. — The death occurred here today of Dov Shira, secretary of the Editorial Board of Am Oved, the Histadrut publication, and the former editor of the Knesset Reports. He was 50.

Shortly before 9 a.m., Shira went up the stairs of the office building at the corner of Allenby Road and Rothschild Blvd. and fell over the railings from the fourth floor. He was killed instantly.

Shira was hit by a car in a street accident on Friday and suffered a brain concussion. As his condition was not considered serious by the doctors at the Hadassah Hospital, Shira's sister, who was summoned from Haifa, was asked to take him home. They intended traveling to Haifa this morning when Shira left his sister "for a moment." She waited for him at the taxi stand.

Dov Shira came to Palestine in 1925 from his native Vilna. Later, he studied in Paris and took degrees in both social science and law. After his return to Palestine in 1935, he was for many years secretary of Hadassah Insurance Company.

A born aesthete, Shira was a lover of the fine arts and old books. His sister is the only surviving member of the family. The funeral will leave from Hadassah Hospital at 4 p.m. tomorrow for the Kiryat Shaul cemetery.

Haifa Eliminates 'Second Shift'

HAIFA, Monday. — A total of 3,340 kindergarten and school children in this city went on summer vacation today, and many end-of-term parties were held in classrooms. About 1,100 boys and girls graduated from elementary school, but some 700 of them will continue their education or training elsewhere.

Next year, 4,500 youngsters will go to school for the first time, filling 66 classrooms.

Over a quarter of a million teachers and pupils in kindergarten and elementary schools throughout Israel began their holidays yesterday.

The three hours of agricultural training given weekly in Haifa schools to eighth and ninth form pupils has borne fruit with a greater number of students than ever before registering for the course.

Learned today from the Municipal Education Department. The students each week were taken to Galim, the nearby Municipal Agricultural School, as part of their curriculum—an innovation introduced last year.

Score of prizes and some 100 certificates of completion were awarded to primary school children who are members of the Traffic Safety Squad yesterday in Jerusalem's Luna Park.

Another bright prospect of Haifa education will be the liquidation of the "second shift" next term, as nearly 90 new classes have been added.
